

The Citywide Council on Special Education (CCSE)

Who: An elected body of volunteer parent members whose children have Individualized Education Programs (IEPs), two members appointed by the public advocate and, a student member

What: We advocate on behalf of ALL NYC students who have IEPs and advise the NYC Department of Education on instructional policies and school issues involving students with disabilities.

How: We hold monthly public meetings with members of the Division of Special Instruction and Student Support, other stakeholders and community resources, that:

- Provide an open forum for the voicing and discussion of parent concerns.
- Provide information, with presentations that focus on specific issues facing NYC students with IEPs. Past topics have included: Bussing, Creating the IEP, Turning 5, IEPs and the Common Core, and Transitioning to high school.
- Offers parents an opportunity to discuss their specific cases with executive members of the Division of Special Instruction and Student Support

Why: Pursuant to Education Law Section 2590-b, the CCSE is responsible to:

- Issue an annual report on the effectiveness of the DOE in providing services to students with disabilities.
- Comment on any educational policies involving the provision of services for students with disabilities.
- Make recommendations on how to improve the efficiency and delivery of such services.
